A website concept for Texas Sheet Metal

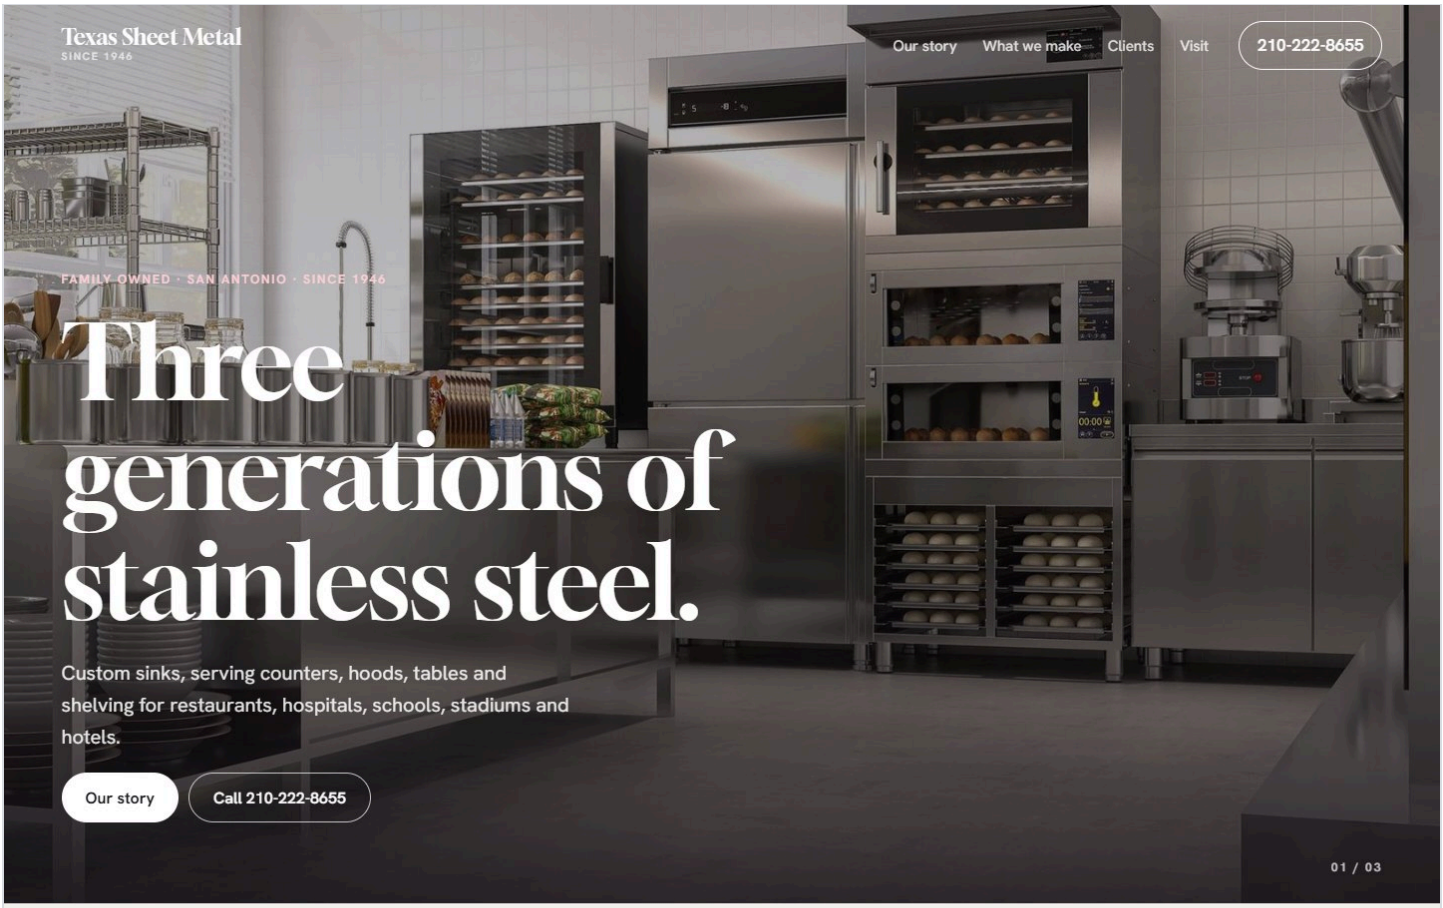

An independent design proposal: how your website could look on a desktop screen and on a phone.

- "Three generations of stainless steel" over a full-screen kitchen photo, one statement per screen
- A brushed stainless plate polishes as visitors read your story, until 1946 shows like an engraving
- Sinks, serving counters, hoods and tables in a swipeable row, and the kitchens you have built for

This is a design preview, not a live replacement for your current site. History, products, client names and photos come from your current website and would be confirmed with you before anything goes live. Some photos were upscaled for this preview.
