NORTHFRAME · WEBSITE DESIGN

A website concept for Oscar's Custom Iron Works

An independent design proposal: how your website could look on a desktop screen and on a phone.

- "Ironwork with three generations behind it." over one of your scroll gates, framed in an arch
- As visitors scroll, an arched gate draws itself line by line, then turns into the photo of one of your gates
- Gates, doors, stairs and balconies, the family story from Monterrey Iron Works to Oscar Jr. and Michael, and your NOMMA awards with the Cinderella carriage

This is a design preview, not a live replacement for your current site. History, awards, hours and photos come from your current website and would be confirmed with you before anything goes live. Some photos were upscaled for this preview.

THE SCROLL

Line by line, a gate takes shape.

Frame, pickets, then the scrolls. Scroll on and the drawing turns into one of our gates.

One of our gates

RESIDENTIAL & COMMERCIAL

What we make

Gates

Driveway gates, walkway gates and automatic gate systems.

Doors

Iron entry doors and hand forged designs.

Stairs & handrails

Spiral staircases, handrails and railings.

Balconies & guards

Balconies, window guards and fencing.

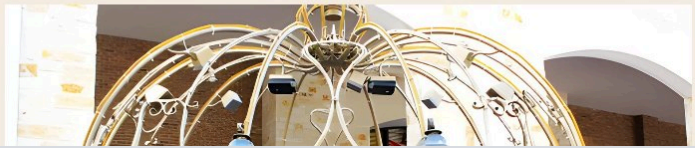

A FAMILY TRADITION

The third generation forges on.

I Monterrey Iron Works
Oscar Hernandez Sr. learned welding and iron craftsmanship under his father's watchful eye, and was already managing the shop at 13.

II Oscar's Custom Iron Works
At 23, Oscar Sr. reopened the shop under his own name. His wife Norma ran the office while he invested in tools and machinery, job by job.

III Oscar Jr. and Michael
Today their sons lead the company's sales, alongside the skilled craftsmen who fabricate every design.

RECOGNITIONS

Yes, they built a Cinderella

carriage.
